

Jan Sahas Social Development Society

Jan Sahas is a non-profit working towards awareness and community empowerment of the most excluded social communities. The aim is to eliminate sexual violence and forced labour, and empower survivors of such violence. Over the years, the organisation has evolved a comprehensive framework of Prevention, Response, Rehabilitation and Systemic Reform to realise its goal of societal transformation. Today, Jan Sahas works in multiple states across India and carries out concentrated capacity building and advocacy efforts with state and civil society organisations.

- Directly influencing the lives of 82,000 girls
- Liberated 3,820 girls from the inhumane practice of manual scavenging
- Provided socio-medico-legal support to 1,890 adolescent girls, who were survivors of rape and sexual assault, to access justice
